

The Oregonian

March 3, 2005

Splice of life -- By running samples of Super 8 film clips through guitar effects and other sound processors, Dave Einmo creates various synthetic sounds, a seemingly simple trick used to great effect on his solo release, "Random Portraits of the Home Movie." Assuming the name Head Like a Kite, Einmo has created a catchy one-off electronic pop album. Members of Kinski, the Posies, Smoosh and Crooked Fingers loan their talents, creating an album that is very much like a family: each song shares DNA with the others but has enough outside influence to create a unique entity. While the guest musicians probably won't tour with him, Einmo seems perfectly capable of creating interesting sound manipulations on his own. 10 p.m. Sunday, Towne Lounge, 714 S.W. 20th Place; cover charge; 503-241-8696.